DEBATE ON THE TARIFF

Several Lively Arguments in the House Yesterday Regarding the Trade Issue.

LITTLEFIELD IN COLLOQUY

Cockran Alluded to as "The New Risen Leader of Democracy."

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 27.—The House to-day adopted the conference report on the general deficiency, sundry, civil, Military Academy and postoffice appropriation bills, and late in the day was the scene of animated debate on the tariff question, in which Messrs. Littlefield (Maine), Williams (Mississippi), Clark (Missouri), and others took part. Mr. Littlefield replied to Mr. Cockran's recent speeches, declaring that the New Yorker in his advocacy of free trade had descended to vilification and vituperation and had added nothing to sum of human knowledge.

He asked the Democrats if they stood on the speech of Mr. Cockran, "the now risen leader of the Democracy."

He further inquired of the Democrats if they approved or disapproved of Mr. Cockran's propositions. The Republicans and the country, he said, were entitled to know. He declared a specific question to Mr. Williams, if he approved Mr. Cockran's policy.

Mr. Williams remained silent.

Mr. Littlefield sought a reply from Mr. Clark (Missouri).

Mr. Clark told the Democrats frantic to say that when the House should give him an hour, he would make a reply "that will knock some of you gentlemen silly." No one, he said, could reply "yes" or "no" to one hour of cheap demagogery. screams of approval came from the Democrats at this utterance.

"The gentleman from Missouri wants one hour to indulge in vilification and vituperation," retorted Mr. Littlefield.

Mr. Littlefield pressed his demand for a categorical answer from any other man on the Democratic side.

Mr. Baker (New York) arose. A great uproar went up from both sides of the House.

"What the gentleman yield?" he excitedly asked.

"No," said Mr. Littlefield, "feels rush in where angels dare not enter."

DE ARMOND SPEAKS.

Mr. Littlefield was drawn in a lively colloquy with Mr. De Armond (Missouri), much to the apparent amusement of the occupants of the galleries. Mr. De Armond said he would venture to gratify Mr. Littlefield to some extent. He was interrupted with cries of "yes" or "no" from the Republicans. Continuing, Mr. De Armond said that if Mr. Littlefield wanted information as to the Democratic position, he would say that the position of the Democrats was to take off or to lower the duties where those duties interfered with trust.

"Bath, back east, came from the Republican side," Mr. Littlefield called upon Mr. De Armond to say whether he did not agree with Mr. Cockran's views. Democratic applause greeted Mr. De Armond when he said the Democratic party would declare for a revision of tariff, so as to drive from shelter the trusts who are now robbing the people. He then wrought the Democrats up to a high pitch of enthusiasm when he asked Mr. Littlefield to answer "yes" or "no" as to whether the Republicans would drive out the trusts. Mr. Littlefield, amid Democratic jeers and laughter, said he would answer when he got ready.

MRI. WILLIAMS REPLIES.

Mr. Williams, replying to Mr. Littlefield, inquired if protection was not a subsidy. Indirectly, the Republicans, he charged, subsidized anything, under the plea of raising the wages of labor. And yet, he added, "you denounce as a socialist, an anarchist, a radical, an agrarian, any man that has an attitude on this floor, in his efforts to raise wages out of the United States treasury."

Then he asked the direct question of Mr. Littlefield if he endorsed the administration of President McKinley. "Yes or no."

"Yes," answered Mr. Littlefield.

"Every word of it," Mr. Williams further inquired.

Mr. Williams then reminded Mr. Littlefield that they stood together against the spirit of colonialism, and said he (Williams) had said yes or no to supply to the inquiry as to whether he approved the Cockran speech, he would not have been telling the truth in the main he believed.

Williams endorsed the Cockran speech, but in some particulars he differed with it. Mr. Littlefield, he added, knew "that there was not only nobody trying to make a campaign on free trade, but he knows as a matter of fact that there could not possibly be any free trade in the United States."

"The only trouble is," he said, "that your policies of inaction and military action have been growing up around us until they are so numerous as to constitute a wilderness that we can hardly find our way out of."

Vociferous cheering from the Democrats for the minority leader as he sat down.

A resolution, offered by Mr. Grosvenor for general leave for all members to print, was voted down, 196 to 131, the Democrats voting with the majority.

At 6:25 the House took a recess until 9 o'clock to-night.

CROPS ARE NOT GREATLY DAMAGED

Reports From Virginia, Georgia and Alabama Show That the Loss is Not Heavy.

(By Associated Press)

WILMINGTON, N. C., April 27.—A summary of special reports from more than two hundred points in the Carolinas, Virginia, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi, with reference to the damage, traced by the recent severe weather and frost, will appear in the Carolina and "Traveler" Journal of this city to-morrow, and will reveal the fact that in North Carolina very little damage has been done, the strawberry crop, potatoes, beans and peas being the greatest sufferers by the frost.

The maximum damage appears to have been in Mount Olive and Goldsboro section, on the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad; Newbern and Kinston, on the Atlantic and Danville; and the Citrus and Orange areas on the Norfolk and Southern. Some damage to peaches, plums and cherries is reported, while in Western North Carolina frost killed many of the peaches and apples, but growers claim a shortage of not more than twenty-five per cent.

Virginia strawberries are estimated to be damaged thirty-three and a third per
